

PEDDLERS ASK ABOUT LICENSE

Informed by City Clerk and Police That Fee Must be Paid Before They Can Canvass.

ONE SALESMAN IS FINED $5

Fortune Tellers and Magazine Salesmen Also Want to Know if They Must Pay Fee.

Peddlers and solicitors were more numerous than usual here today and quite a number of inquiries were made at the clerk's office and police station if licenses were required before orders could be taken and goods delivered. An ordinance requiring such peddlers to pay a license is effective and some of them paid over the required amount of cash, while others said they would "think it over a while" and "come back later."

Charles Greenberg was located by the police while trying to sell silverware in violation of the ordinance. He was informed that he would have to pay for a license and was taken before the mayor where he was charged with violating the city ordinance. It was proved that he had made at least one sale. Greenberg pleaded guilty and paid his fine of $5 and costs.

When he pleaded guilty he broke down and cried, declaring he was having a hard time to make a living for his wife and children and that he met the same difficulty about everywhere he went. He left the impression that he had not been able to dispose of much of his wares. He said he would stay here several days and would comply with the ordinance as long as he was here. Persons who heard the man's story extended sympathy to him, but as he admitted the sale, the fine was assessed.

Another young man called at the police station and asked if a license is required to take orders for magazines. He offered three periodicals at a remarkably low price, he said, and with each order gave a premium. The police told him that the ordinance did not require him to take out a license to take orders for such magazines, but when he left the city building he was not sure that he would begin work here on account of the premium offer.

Another young couple inquired at the city clerk's office about a license for the right of telling fortunes and practicing palmistry. They received the discouraging news that an ordinance required them to pay $25 for the first day they engaged in the business here and $15 for each additional day. This ordinance was passed several years ago after several local people were "fleece" out of a considerable sum by a fortune teller who left the city between suns.

The young couple did not feel inclined to pay over the amount required and said that they would look elsewhere.

During the day a number of other persons inquired about the license fees. The ordinance which is in effect now, has been on the statute books for several years. However, one section of it may be amended soon, an ordinance having been presented at the last meeting of the council. It will not be taken up for several weeks.

RIGHT HAND CRUSHED OFF WHILE ADJUSTING LATHE

James McWhorter Sustains Severe Injury at the Seymour Manufacturing Company.

James McWhorter, an employe at the Seymour Manufacturing Company, sustained a severe injury this afternoon while adjusting a lathe in the dimension mill at that plant. His right hand was caught in the machine and the bones were terribly crushed. He was given assistance by his fellow employes and a physician was immediately called.

When the physician arrived at the factory and discovered the nature of the injury he recommended that the unfortunate man be removed to the City Hospital where he could be given the best of attention.

After an examination it was found that the hand was so badly lacerated that amputation just above the wrist was necessary. Some of the bones in the wrist were crushed. At 3:30 o'clock the patient was still under the effect of the anaesthetic.

In accordance with the new Indiana Compensation Act, the Manufacturing Company filed a report immediately with the Industrial Board. This is the most severe accident that has occurred in Seymour since the new act became effective.

BOY ACCIDENTLY SHOTS SELF AT A CHARIVARI

Dolph DeLong, of Freetown, Sustains Injury, But It is Not Believed to be Serious.

While participating in an old-fashioned charivari at Freetown, Saturday night Dolph DeLong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeLong, of Freetown, accidentally shot himself through the hand. He was using a revolver and loaded shells and thought that the gun had been emptied.

While attempting to remove the shells one of them was discharged and the bullet entered the palm of his hand. He was taken immediately to a physician's office where the wound was dressed. The physician says the injury is not serious. Several weddings have occurred at Freetown recently and the boys had included all of them in the charivari.

SIX MEMBERS OF ONE FAMILY HAVE TYPHOID

Disease Traced to Surface Well and Test of Water Showed Presence of Germs.

Six cases of typhoid fever in a family of eight is the situation in the family of Emmett Randen, east of Seymour, in Jennings county.

Mr. Randen had scarcely recovered from an attack when the other six members of the family at home were taken ill with the disease. The other daughter who was attending school at Terre Haute is the only one in the family who has not had the fever. She was called home to assist her father in looking after the others who have the disease. A sample of the well water was sent to the state board of health for examination and was found to be full of typhoid germs. The well is a surface well.

LOCAL PLANS ARE OUTLINED

Superintendent T. A. Mott is at Head of Movement in Jackson County to Appoint Committees.

The Fourth congressional district is the first in the state to effect organization for next year's Centennial celebration. In each of the eleven counties comprising the district, a centennial chairman has been secured, who, with his committee, will plan and supervise the one hundredth anniversary observance in his respective county.

The personnel of the organization of the Fourth district follows:

Jackson, T. A. Mott, this city; Bartholomew, T. F. Fitzgibbon, Columbus, city schools superintendent; Brown, W. C. Goble, Nashville, city school superintendent; Dearborn, W. H. O'Brien, Lawrenceburg, banker; Decatur, Walter W. Bonner, Greensburg, banker; Jefferson, Joseph H. Hanna, Madison, county school superintendent; Jennings, John Clerkin, North Vernon, attorney; Johnson, J. C. Webb, Fanklin, county school superintendent; Ohio, S. M. Seward, Rising Sun, editor and mayor; Ripley, Judge F. M. Thompson, Versailles, attorney; Switzerland, Forest Idings, Vevay, county agricultural agent and high school teacher.

Superintendent Mott has already outlined tentative plans for the observance of the Centennial in this community. He will work with the other chairmen in the Fourth district and it is hoped that the idea and purpose of the Centennial will be brought before every resident of the county before the year 1916 has advanced far.

The schools will be used to a great extent in emphasizing the advancement of the Hoosier state during the last one hundred years. More attention will be given to the history of the state, especially the incidents concerning its organization and pioneer life the coming year than ever before. Already several histories of Indiana have been published and embody many new facts that have hitherto been almost overlooked.

Various organizations in the county will also be requested to study Indiana history this year. Superintendent Mott will soon appoint a committee including representatives from each township.

DUMBA WRITES BITTER LETTER

Defends His Actions Which Caused Recall.

COMPLAINS OF U. S. ACTION

Protests It Was Unjust, and Asserts That He Has No Apologies to Make —Asserts Was Refused Courtesy of Communication With Government.

New York, Sept. 20.—The Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, whose recall has been asked by this government, because of his admitted proposal to instigate strikes in American munition plants, defends his action in a lengthy letter sent to Secretary Lansing at Washington, made public by the ambassador here.

Dr. Dumba protests against the request for his recall as unjust and complains of the restrictions imposed by this government upon his communications with his home government.

Complaining of the restrictions placed upon him through the American wireless censorship, the ambassador in his letter to Secretary Lansing says:

“As the Austro-Hungarian ambassador is and has been for many months past in the phenomenal position of being unable to communicate privately with his government, although our enemies are and have been permitted freely to use the cables for their secret code dispatches without censorship, I have by the grace of your department, now been permitted to communicate with my government through the German embassy, but to the extent only of asking for leave of absence to the end that I may in person explain my position, and meantime to suspend judgment upon the charges contained in your excellency's message and am now awaiting a reply.

“I have not even been allowed to advise my government that I do not admit having conspired to do any act in violation of the laws of the country to which I am accredited and whose hospitality I have enjoyed and have in no way abused. The message that I sought to have transmitted to that effect was rejected by your censor as hereafter explained. In some unaccountable way this confidential message was communicated to the press and has been published.

Protests His Recall.
“I of course do not and cannot question the power of the government of the United States to dismiss me by handing me my passports and assuring me safe conduct home without assigning any reason therefor, or on such grounds as it may deem sufficient without regard to my opinion as to its justice. When, however, your government sees fit to resort to the extraordinary and to me humiliating course of preferring charges against me to my government without advising me of the intended action or even intimating that such action is contemplated and to request my recall upon those charges as confessed, whilst at the same time refusing me permission even to communicate privately with my government. I respectfully protest against such action as unjust to me and contrary to diplomatic usage.

“I ask you in all fairness, was ever an ambassador in a neutral country confronted with such a situation, created and enforced by the government to which he is accredited whilst ambassadors representing enemies of his country have unlimited means of secret communication?

“It has been made literally impossible for me to communicate privately with my government. Under such conditions I have no apologies to offer for having entrusted my letter to Mr. Archibald. If the conveying of letters to Europe by Americans traveling abroad during this war is an offense, it is one of which most Americans are apparently ignorant, as the courtesy has frequently been volunteered by my friends and is habitually practiced. It did not for a moment occur to me that it was improper, nor am I yet able to see it in that light, having regard to the entirely legitimate purpose I had in mind in the line of the performance of my duty.”

The ambassador then recounts the proclamation issued by the German government calling attention of its citizens residents in this and other foreign countries to the severe penalties they would incur by participating in the manufacture of munitions for the countries with which Germany is at war.

“They could probably,” he added “see no distinction in principle or effects between accomplishing the slaughter of their countrymen in this way and taking up arms against them, except that the former method would be more effective than the latter.”

Dr. Dumba then states that he was advised by his government of the issuance of a similar proclamation. He said that he thereupon made strong representations to his country for a suspension of the operation of this law against citizens of Austria-Hungary resident in this country, because, he said, unlike the German workmen, “our citizens in those factories were largely poorly paid, unskilled laborers most of whom were unable to read or write any language other than their own and who would find it difficult, if not impossible to secure other employment.

“At the time of publication of your message,” he wrote, “I had as yet been able to take no step toward the carrying out of these instructions and had, of course, no intention of doing so in any way that would violate the laws or offend against the customs of the country.

“My absolute right and duty to call our countrymen in the United States out of their respective employment to the ranks as soon as Austria-Hungary was in a state of war has not been and can not be questioned. The French and Italian ambassadors did and are doing this without question from official quarters. Why, then, is the former characterized as conspiracy in my case while the latter is recognized as legitimate as applied to the action of the allies?”

DR. DUMBA ANGERS U. S.

Letter, However, Will Not Hasten Departure of Diplomat.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The administration regards with high displeasure the letter of Dr. Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Secretary of State Lansing. It is understood, however, that no further action in the ambassador's case is contemplated as this government considers his case already completely disposed of by the fact that his departure from this country, never to return as ambassador, is an absolute certainty.

His defense in regard to the matter of the request for his recall is regarded as wholly beside the mark; his charges against this government are regarded as unjustifiable, while some of the insinuations and innuendoes are looked upon as highly offensive.

From the fact that it became public property through the newspapers, without the sanction of the state department, officials are satisfied that it was really directed to the American public, particularly that part of it in closest sympathy with the cause of the Germanic allies, and not the United States government.

Laborer on Railroad Murdered at Huntington, Ind.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 20.—Tony Monich was murdered and robbed at a camp of Italian laborers in the west yards of the Erie railroad here. He was shot through the left shoulder and a heavy railroad tie was thrown on him from the top of a pile of ties, breaking his neck and fracturing his skull.

Thomas Maniso, twenty-one years old, another Italian at the camp, is held for the crime. Maniso was found with a bullet wound in his right leg, which the police and coroner believe was self-inflicted. He had $10.72 in a pocketbook and his meager personal property had been gathered together for flight, the police assert.

VILNA FALLS TO TEUTONS

Capture of Dwinsk Is Now Momentarily Expected.

RUSSIAN ARMY MENACED

Germans Will Soon Be In Control of Railroad Which Runs to Petrograd —Riga Will Be Cut Off From Reinforcements.

London, Sept. 20.—The fortified city of Vilna, important railroad center, which has been the goal of the Austro-German armies ever since they took the last stronghold of the main Russian line of defence, fell into their hands.

The German war office in announcing the fall of Vilna, which it calls “strongly fortified,” asserts that the encircling movement has forced the Russians to retreat “as quickly as possible along the entire front.”

The fall of Dwinsk, northwest of Vilna, is expected momentarily, and with it the Teutons will be in control of the railroad which runs all the way from the Austro-German border line to Petrograd.

Riga will be completely cut off from possible Russian reinforcements that might stem the drive of the extreme northern German army toward the big Baltic port. The Russian capital will be open to the menace of a northward dash of the Teutons.

The official Russian statement claims successes of the southern end of the southeastern Russian armies. No mention is made of the Vilna or Dwinsk, but it may be safely assumed that the czar will be compelled by the concerted advance of the Austro-German armies against the most important Russian railway line to revise his entire program and possibly to give up the so far successful offensive in Galicia to rush the bulk of his forces northward for the supreme effort of stemming the tide of invasion.

The predominant question consequent to the fall of Vilna is whether there was a force of any extensive numerical left for the city's defense after Petrograd realized its impending capture. The daily reports in the last few weeks told of violent fighting around the city, especially on the Viliya. The Germans admitted repeatedly that their operations, which finally effected the closing of the “iron ring” were continually hampered by extremely stubborn counter attacks on the part of the defenders. It has not been made clear, however, whether these attacks were those of the Russian rear guard, screening the retreat of the bulk of the troops that were originally massed for Vilna's defense.

Whatever the numerical strength of the Russians east of Vilna, their escape appears to be cut off. The German official report says that Molodecho, Smorgon and Worjany have been reached by the Austro-Germans left wing. Molodechno is southeast of Vilna, and is the junction of the Warsaw-Polo, and the Vilna, Minsk railroads Smorgon lies on the latter railroad and Worjany on the former. This leaves the Russians the Vilna-Lidau, Revno lines as the sole road of escape. This line, however, is closely threatened by Austro-German forces around Lidau.

Minsk, the junction of the Brest-Litovsk-Smolensk-Moscow and Vilna Gornel lines, is expected to be the immediate goal of the Austro-German left wing.

German infantry made an attack in the region of Faye, southwest of Peronne, following the explosion of a mine described in the French communique as “very powerful.” The French infantry, supported by artillery fire, repulsed the attack, according to the official statement, and took a number of prisoners.

British men of war undertook a bombardment of the German positions in the region of Nieuport, on the Belgian coast. The German coast batteries replied and the French heavy artillery joined with the British ships in the attack.

The communique indicates that the German artillery fire in Champagne has lessened in intensity, the enemy replying only feebly to the French fire.

CLOTHING DISCARDED BY BANDIT FOUND

Boys Find Suit Case of Train Robber Near Cicero.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 20.—On the outskirts of Cicero, near the scene of the L. E. & W. robbery, boys at play found a man's shoes, socks, underwear, trousers, hat and coat, evidently the clothing worn by the bandit and discarded by him after his leap from the train.

The boys were playing at the side of a stream about a quarter of a mile north of Cicero. It was in this direction that the footprints led from the side of the track, found immediately after the robbery. The shoes were taken to Cicero and compared with the imprints of the robber's shoes and were found to be identical.

Evidence also was found indicating that the bandit had a horse and buggy waiting near the scene and that he drove away in this after he had changed his clothing. A suit case, in which he probably carried his change of clothing was found near the discarded clothes.

The bandit, however, was careful to leave nothing in his clothing that might prove a clew to his identity. The name of the maker of the hat had been removed, as were also all laundry marks and other marks that might be an aid to detectives.

All the clothing agrees with the description of the clothing worn by the robber, as given by the express messenger, Ralph Williams, who was in the express car when it was robbed of about $2,500 in valuables.

The clothing and suit case are in the possession of Sheriff Oscar Weddell of Noblesville. The sheriff said he learned that the horse and buggy, which it is believed the robber used in making his getaway, was driven west from the scene of the crime, through Westfield.

SECONDARY RACE TO BE HARD FOUGHT

Football Coaches Face Task of Whipping Teams Into Shape for First Games.

SCHEDULES ARE ANNOUNCED

DePauw and Wabash Squads in Charge of New Coaches—Rose Poly May Come Back.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 20.—With the preliminary work over, the deficiencies discovered and the new stars found, football coaches in Indiana secondary colleges today faced the task of whipping their various combinations of veterans and green material into a working team for the opening games two weeks hence.

After giving their own squads and those of their rivals the once over, it was pretty generally agreed in the secondary camps today that the season of 1915 will see the hardest race in the history of Indiana college football.

New blood has been injected into two squads, De Pauw and Wabash, by obtaining new coaches. The work of Ralph Young, the famous Washington and Jeff fullback, at DePauw, and that of Paul P. Sheek, a South Dakota product, at Wabash will be closely watched.

Coach Whiteside at Earlham has the largest squad ever turned out at the Quaker school but the greater part of it is new material. Graduation left the Quaker eleven with Captain Bowen alone remaining of last year's backfield.

Butler Cully Thomas who produced the team that won the championship last year is optimistic over this year's outlook. He has a number of veterans left besides much promising new material from the high schools.

After an off year Rose Poly may stage a come back. Only such a revival can put the Engineers in the running. At Franklin, John M. Thurber, the former Colgate star, who has done much to put the Baptists on the map, is believed to face the best year in the schools' history.

Tricky Hanover appears at this time a dark horse. It has been many moons since the Presbyterians have won any sort of a title but they were going good last year, losing to Butler by a lone field goal.

Whatever may come, it seems certain that no mix-up over the secondary title will result this year as in many past years. Butler, DePauw and Wabash each meet and the schedules of all schools seem better arranged.

The schedules of the secondary colleges of the state, as compiled by the United Press are:

SECOND TRAINING SCHOOL HELD AT SHERIDAN, ILL.

Business Men in Camp to Receive Instructions in Army Maneuvers.

By United Press.

Fort Sheridan, Ill., September 20.—Uncle Sam's second school of training for business men in the art of soldiery opened here today with approximately 750 men from all stages of the business and professional world housed in tents and ready for the first day's work. Regular soldiers meet the "rookies" at the trains which brought them from all sections of the south and middle west and some from eastern points. The camp will close October 18th and each "soldier" is expected to remain the thirty days.

As fast as the men reached the camp they reported to Col. Nicholson, who will be in charge. They were assigned six to a tent. Each was equipped with full infantry paraphernalia, including a rifle, pack, knapsack, canteen. After being fitted out they were excused for the day. Most of the "fighters" roamed about the reservation, took in the sights and familiarized themselves with the surroundings and their new clothes.

Like the camp at Plattsburgh, N. Y., the local camp will be one of hard work, once the stiffness is worked out. The reveille bugle at six each morning will start the day's training. From 7:25 until 8:30 the men will be drilled in setting-up exercises and squad drills. Then they are free until noon when they will be permitted to try out their appetites on the army rations.

In the afternoon the men will have the option of training in infantry, signal corps, artillery, medical engineering and cavalry. Those who have been sitting on cushioned swivel chairs will be given much opportunity to unlimber their joints on the back of a prancing charger. However, it is not thought there will be a heavy demand by the "chair brigade" for mounts.

After eight days of this work, Col. Nicholson and his squad of commissioned officers and non-coms, hope to have their pupils in good shape to start long marches and to let the men try out their rifles on the target ranges. It is also planned to have sham battles during the last two weeks.

Company E, Nineteenth infantry, from Fort Sill, Okla., a portion of Battery A., Field artillery of Sparta, Wis., with a band and a company of the signal corps from the post at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., arrived today to assist the citizen army in training.

Captain Robinson, Co. E., and Lieuts. Davis, Walker, Brown and Kelly and twelve non-commissioned officers from various posts will compose Co. Nicholson's staff.

JOHN W. TALBOT SEEKS TO BE REINSTATED AT SOUTH BEND

Lawyer was Disbarred for Alleged Subornation of Perjury in Recent Trial.

By United Press.

South Bend, Ind., September 20.—The new term of the St. Joseph county superior court opening today will see the hearing before a jury of John W. Talbot's application for reinstatement to the St. Josephs bar. Talbot's fight for reinstatement, which has continued over many years, will find many opponents here. The struggle has been a bitter one.

Talbot was disbarred following alleged subornation of perjury in connection with a trial in the LaPorte circuit court. Talbot's attorneys have withdrawn a petition for a special venire and the jury will be chosen from the regular venire. Two of the three attorneys appointed to represent the bar association have withdrawn from the case and Chester R. Montgomery, the remaining member, threatens to withdraw.

J. N. White went to Indianapolis this morning on business.

THE IMPROVED STREETS
Already complaints have been filed that the trash and debris on the improved streets is becoming objectionable. And, the force has been off duty but a few days. The condition will, of course, become worse the longer the streets are neglected.

Threats have been made to call the assistance of the state board of health if the streets become too obnoxious. It appears that something could be done to prevent such action. Surely Seymour is able to take care of her own improved streets without invoking the assistance of the state health department.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

A son was born Sunday, Sept. 19, to Mr. and Mrs. Howard White.

Mrs. Catherine Hauenschild is seriously ill at her home on South Poplar street.

Louis Cooley has purchased the Studebaker automobile, formerly owned by Dr. H. R. Kyte.

Mrs. George Hancock, who has been ill at her home on North Ewing street for some time, is not much better.

T. H. Barkman spent Sunday at at Brownstown with his brother, Fred Barkman, who is seriously ill with inflammation of the brain.

Fred Kline, who has been very ill at his home on East Fifth street, is improving and is able to sit up for a few hours at a time.

J. H. Matlock, who has been ill for some time at his home on North Walnut street, rested well last night and feels stronger today.

J. T. Barnes, who has been quite ill at his home on West Second street for several weeks, is resting better but his condition is serious.

Norman Barkman and daughter, Norma, have returned home from Indianapolis, where they have been on account of the illness of his daughter, Mary Margaret.

Nothing has been heard relative to the horse and buggy stolen from Ed Ude, of Dudleytown, Friday night. The local police sent notices to the adjoining counties but no replies have been received.

Quite a number from here witnessed the ball game at Columbus Sunday. Among those who went from here were Hubert Bridges, Herman Steinkamp, John Holtman and Ben Simon, the trip being made in the Simon car.

E. A. Remy has sold the West Seventh street cottage he owned to Mrs. Lydia J. Hanner of Owen township who will move into it in the near future. Mr. Remy has his home place on North Walnut street for sale yet and hopes to sell it before removing to Greensburg. This is excellent property and there is no better location in the city.

Rev. J. F. Severinghaus, formerly pastor of the German M. E. church here, filled the pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday morning very acceptably in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Graham, who is ill at his home in Louisville. In the evening Rev. T. C. Smith who has been assisting in the pastoral work this summer, filled the pulpit. Rev. Mr. Graham expects to be back next Sunday to preach, as usual.

TELLS PUBLIC HOW TO AVOID ILLNESS

Education Greatest Factor In Preventing Disease.

WHAT NEW YORK IS DOING.

Every Time a Child Is Born the State Department of Health Immediately Sends Mother Papers Telling What to Do to Keep the Youngster in Perfect Physical Condition.

"Efficient birth reporting, such as we are now securing in New York state, is essential in carrying on an effective infant welfare campaign. Every time a birth is reported the state department of health sends to the mother circulars dealing with child welfare," said C. E. A. Winslow, director of the division of publicity and education of the health board, in a recent address at Rochester.

"It is unnecessary to argue before the American Public Health association as to the importance of public health education as a factor in the prevention of preventable disease.

"It was in the campaign against tuberculosis that the importance of reaching the individual citizen and teaching him about the conduct of his individual life was first definitely grasped. In the case of this disease it was quite clear that the most important of all measures were those which built up the vital resistance of the body and maintained the fighting edge which is so effective against this particular microbic enemy. Sanitary shops and tenements were needed; the sanitary care of sputum was needed; but, above all, healthy habits of individual living were essential. Hence the anti-tuberculosis movement became a great campaign of popular education. It was animated by a new idea, the idea of bringing hygienic knowledge right to the individual in his home or in his shop, and it developed a new machinery, a new system of organization, for bringing about this end.

Conquest of White Plague.

"In doing this work the medical and sanitary experts, and particularly the social workers, not only pointed the way to a conquest of the great white plague, but set in motion forces which are revolutionizing the campaign for public health in every field. The same thing has happened more recently in the movement for the reduction of infant mortality.

"Education is indeed the keynote of the modern campaign for public health. Tuberculosis and infant mortality are pre-eminent among all the causes of preventable disease and death as the greatest scourges, from the abatement of which the largest results for humanity are to be attained. In each case the fight must be won not merely by the construction of public works, but by altering the daily conduct of the individual life.

"The same thing is true with regard to the spread of the acute contagia, the burden of infectious disease, the obscure ill effects of defective eyes and ears and teeth. In the campaign against the degenerative diseases of adult life, which progressive state and city health departments are now initiating, the education of the individual is practically our only weapon. In every one of these cases the fight can be won by spreading clear and definite knowledge of the ways in which disease is caused and the ways in which it may be prevented.

"The general recognition of these facts is very recent, and the technique of the art of public health education must be elaborated and perfected during the next few years.

Educating the Public.

"The various activities, literature, lectures and exhibits, form almost everywhere the elements of the educational public health campaign. One of the tasks of the future, as it seems to me, is to add to such training of the individual in the elements of hygiene and sanitation some definite plan of health organization which shall make our health militia more effective for all necessary forms of common action.

"Much progress has been made during the past decade in arousing public sentiment as to the need for activities along health lines. Many communities now have infant welfare stations, visiting nurse associations, tuberculosis committees and other organizations which include health work more or less prominently in their programs.

"If there were a central health council in each community representing all the various health activities it might serve as a valuable board of strategy for utilizing the health forces of the community to the best advantage. Such a central council would, of course, have no power to control the action of agencies already in existence. Its meetings, however, would act as a clearing house for information as to overlapping and as to unfilled needs. It would give to all its constituent organizations a clearer view of their work in relation to the whole problem, and the council once formed would be in a position to plan new health activities intelligently and to bring an organized force of public opinion to bear for securing funds from either public or private sources."

HOME RUN DRIVE IN NINTH CALLED FOUL, LOSING GAME

Austin Umpire Throws Game to White Sox by Declaring McElfresh's Drive Over Fence a Foul.

The Red Sox-Austin game at Austin yesterday came near ending in a row when, in the ninth inning, Umpire Duncan of Austin deprived Sim McElfresh of a home run and the Seymour team of a 3 to 2 victory by calling Mac's drive over the right field fence, which was fair by three feet, a foul. The local players protested vigorously and threatened to leave the field, but after about ten minutes of wrangling and discussion agreed to finish the game. Austin then injected Durney, a fresh south-paw pitcher, into the game and he retired the side on strike outs.

The Austin team made their two markers in the opening round when F. James got a Texas leaguer back of second, and Williams was given a base on balls. The two runners advanced when Voyles threw to second to catch James napping and Bozzell failed to get over to the sack in time. Crabb, a Louisville catcher, then came through with a timely single to left and both runners were home. This was the extent of the Austin scoring, for after that Voyles was invincible, and whenever they managed to hit, flashy fielding prevented any damage. In the second pitcher James hit what looked like a sure triple, but McElfresh went back almost to the fence and made a great one handed catch. Again in the sixth with a man on third, the hard hitting Marsh drove a wicked liner to right which Green pulled down after a good sprint.

The locals scored in the fourth when Green was hit by a pitched ball and went all the way around on McElfresh's long double to center. Nothing developed in the scoring then until the ninth. Green, first up, lifted a short fly back of short which neither Williams nor F. James could reach. McElfresh was next and when James gave him a fast one he met it squarely and the ball sailed over Lagenour's head in right, clearing the fence by twenty feet, and inside the four line by at least two feet. Mac went all the way around with Green in front of him, only to learn that the Austin umpire had called it a foul. After the excitement had quieted down and the game was resumed, Mac missed a third swing and Levi and Bozzell both whiffed three times at Durney's shoots.

W. Wagner, the local back stop, got a foul tip from James' bat in the fifth and suffered a broken finger, and will probably be out of the game the rest of the season. Red Levi went behind the bat and caught a nice game, Flecker taking his place at first and Manager Riehl going to second.

Ottos Blanked.

The Ottos were blanked in their game with Scottsburg yesterday at Schroer Park, the score being 2 to 0. Inability to hit when men were on base cost the local team the game, as several times a hit would have broken up the game. Ester and Furrish engaged in a pitching duel, Furrish getting twelve strike outs and the Scottsburg pitcher eleven. The local pitcher yielded two more hits, however, than his opponent. A good crowd of fans saw the game.

Columbus Drubbed.

The Columbus team was given a very thorough lesson in the alphabet yesterday, and when they got through with the A. B. C.'s, or rather, when the A. B. C.'s got through with them, and the score keeper had gone through a long problem in addition, it was found that the score was 12 to 0 in favor of the dusky athletes. The colored champs hit the offerings of the eminent Mr. Whitehouse to all corners of the lot, and had the Columbus outfielders chasing back to the fence throughout the entire game. Dicta Johnson was on the mound for the A. B. C.'s and held the Columbus hitters to six scattered hits. A large crowd of local fans went up for the game.

DIAMOND DUST.

Grover More hit the second ball pitched in the first inning for a double to right, but could not get around.

James was in better form than on his appearance here, and pitched effective ball.

Besides catching a neat game, Crabbe, of Louisville, was responsible for the Austin runs with his clean single in the first.

Riehl cut off a score in the seventh, when he grabbed the ball after Bozzell had muffed up F. James' grounder and threw to the plate, nailing Rich.

Only a fair sized crowd of local fans went down for the game, the games here and at Columbus dividing the crowd.

In both the sixth and seventh innings the first Austin batter led off with a two base hit, but good pitching by Voyls and fast fielding prevented any scoring.

CONDITION OF BARKMAN GIRL IS MORE HOPEFUL

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barkman will Remain at Hospital Two More Weeks.

Mary Margaret, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barkman, who underwent an operation at the St. Vincent hospital last Thursday, is doing as well as can be expected. Although the operation was of a very serious nature, her condition is more hopeful than it was at first predicted, yet the results are uncertain. The blood taken from the wound will be given a microscopic examination so that a definite decision can be given as to the nature of the disease. The patient does not seem to be suffering nearly so intensely as before the operation and is in a very cheerful mood. She will probably remain at the hospital for about two more weeks before she can be removed. Mrs. Barkman will remain with her daughter until she is able to be brought to her home here.

Indianapolis, September 20—That the alleged election conspirators who "padded" the registration sheets in the election in question in Mayor Joseph E. Bell's trial were not respecters of persons was brought out today by the Rev. George Burbanck, who testified that no man by the name of Fremont ever lived in his house in Senate avenue. Such a name with that address appeared on the registration sheets. Burbanck was not cross-examined.

Women took the witness stand for the first time today. They brought out that several names as registered as coming from their homes in precinct 8 of the third ward had never been heard of before.

GENERAL LAFAYETTE IN INDIANA.

The year 1825 was eventful throughout the United States for the visit of Lafayette, an Indiana memorial of which is found in the name of the capital of Tippecanoe county. As Indiana's new capital was insignificant and inaccessible, Gov. Ray met the guest of honor at Jeffersonville on the Ohio River.

"In the forest adjoining the village," writes Mrs. Levering in her history, "a feast was spread to which the general was conducted by the state militia, and children strewed flowers in his path. At the head of the long table was an arch with the inscription, 'Indiana Welcomes Lafayette, the champion of liberty in both hemispheres.'"

ASK $250,000,000 FOR WAR PLANS

Garrison's Scheme For Defense of Nation.

PROVIDES ARMY RESERVE

By Operation of Plan Army at End of
Five Years Will Have 500,000,000
Trained Men Available For Service
—To Establish Naval Laboratory.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The scheme of Secretary of War Garrison for national defense contemplates the appropriation by congress at the next session of approximately $250,000,000 for the use of the army.

As outlined the Garrison plan provides an increase of approximately $136,000,000, or a margin more than double the present appropriations. Unless President Wilson can convince the house and senate, it is believed there will be a strong fight made on the increase cost of national defense.

When Secretary Garrison appointed a committee of ranking officers to go into the questions they presented the various needs of the army from their viewpoint and then advised the head of the department that it would require $600,000,000 this year to provide these needs.

The secretary took the plans and analyzed them piece by piece until he has finally cut the cost by $350,000,000.

As now worked out, the plans provide for an army built along the following lines.

An immediate increase of between 25,000 and 40,000 men and 1,000 officers. The present enlistment terms to be changed to the short enlistment, with a reserve provision which required the soldiers to turn to the colors upon call.

By the operation of this plan the army at the end of five years would consist of 500,000 trained men, 125,000 in the service and 375,000 prepared to join the colors at a moment's notice.

Secretary Daniels it was announced, has requested members of the new naval advisory council on inventions, headed by Thomas A. Edison, to formulate ideas as to an experimental and research laboratory to be maintained by the navy department for the development of inventions. The secretary, in a letter to the members of the advisory council, asks them to be ready with their ideas when the council holds its first meeting next month.

The department possesses, in the chiefs of the three bureaus of construction, steam engineering and ordnance, and in the officers assigned to those bureaus, men splendidly qualified to carry to perfection any novel ideas and to originate many improvements of their own. As a matter of fact, the work along those lines that is now being done under the greatest possible handicaps by the navy's own officers would surprise the public, were it expedient to reveal improvements of a more or less confidential nature. The navy has, however, been seriously handicapped by the lack of an adequate control establishment, where the ideas of its own officers, as well as those suggested by civilians could be taken up and patiently developed in the same way that such ideas are handled in great manufacturing establishments."

BANK DIRECTORS INDICTED

Action Taken Against Grafton, Md.,
Directors After a Year.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 20.—The Taylor county grand jury, after a session of nearly five days, at Grafton, W. Va., returned indictments against the directors of the Grafton bank, a state institution, which closed its doors nearly a year ago, and which at the time it was stated, would liquidate without loss to the depositors.

Colonel John T. McGraw was president of the institution. Two indictments were found against him, one for felony and one for misdemeanor, while fifteen indictments for felony and one for misdemeanor were found against Charles H. Durbin, the cashier, who is McGraw's brother-in-law.

The others indicted are: Clyde A. Cale, felony; Thomas E. Joyce, Jr., misdemeanor; A. S. Warden, Jr., misdemeanor.

The assets of the bank were in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Cashier Durbin's liabilities are said to be $646,000, and his assets $201,000. Colonel McGraw borrowed from the bank in the neighborhood of $400,000, it is charged.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED

Gang Charged With Making Bogus $2
Revenue Stamps.

New York, Sept. 20.—Secret service agents, acting under the direction of Captain Henry, made what William H. Flynn, chief of the secret service, says is one of the most important arrests that the department has made in years. Four men, charged with counterfeiting $2 internal revenue stamps, were captured just as they were getting them in readiness to put in circulation. One of the men was caught with a bundle of the counterfeited stamps, just as he was leaving a printing office to take them to a place where they were to be distributed. All are at police headquarters.

The chief believes this is one of the best catches his department has made for some time, as it would have been comparatively easy to have distributed the counterfeit stamps and it would have been difficult for the average person to have detected the counterfeits.

MAN MURDERED AND ROBBED

Police of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., Trying to Solve Mystery.

Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The police of this place are trying to solve a murder mystery, the third in a little more than two months. The body of Michael Duffy, sixty years old, a gardener, was found on the New York Central railroad tracks, near the station. The skull and the spinal cord were fractured and both legs were broken. Police Captain Costello and Coroner Dunn believe that Duffy was attacked and killed and his body placed on the railroad tracks.

Duffy was employed by the Lorena Real Estate company. After drawing his month's wages, $46.75, he left for Tarrytown to visit his wife and six children. No money was found on his body.

The attack on Duffy was one of four of a similar nature made at almost the same spot in a few months, though in one case the victim survived.

MOST SUCCESSFUL CROOK IS CAUGHT

Bank Director Jekyll and Hyde
Worth Nearly a Million.

SWINDLED FORTY-SIX YEARS

Held at Last After Being Arrested
Three Times Before—Never Went
After Small Amounts, and His Hauls
Were Always Large—System Explained by Detectives.

Detectives who had been searching for sixteen years for John W. Barnhardt declare that in his arrest in St. Louis they captured the most daring, successful criminal in the United States. How many names he operated under is yet to be determined; but, according to the police, he has confessed being guilty of fraudulent acts for forty-six years in every large city of the country.

His profits are said to have made him almost a millionaire. Only three times before in his career has he been arrested—in Kansas City, Denver and Waukesha, Wis.

His life has not been one of dodging and hiding from officers of the law, but rather a Jekyll and Hyde existence. For ten years he had lived in a splendid home in Forrest City, Ark., to which he returned periodically with thousands of dollars, which he placed in his bank. He was a leading citizen and director of the largest bank, and his family was prominent socially. He had been urged to become a candidate for the state senate.

According to the police, the thousands he brought home were obtained by loans on fraudulent deeds, which is alleged to have been his specialty for twenty years. As John W. Kline he is said to have gone to Kansas City in 1898, represented himself as a man of means and obtained a loan of $40,000 on a bogus deed. He was arrested and sentenced to two years.

His System Explained.

Barnhardt's system of working, as explained by detectives, is simple. Aided by his appearance and a show of ready money, he sought out owners of valuable real estate on the pretext he intended to buy the property. On the statement that he wished to investigate the titles he would obtain the warranty deed. Then clever forgeries of the document would be made, and Barnhardt would appear in some near-by community and negotiate a loan, always a large one.

Barnhardt escaped from jail in Waukesha, Wis., recently, the police say.

Dispatches from Council Bluffs, Ia.; Kansas City, Mo.; Waukesha, Wis.; Kalamazoo, Mich., and Quincy and Danville, Ill., indicate that a man believed to be Barnhardt had been involved in real estate swindling operations in or near those cities.

AEROPLANE'S LIFE 100 HOURS

Statistics Show That Each Machine
Lasts Little More Than Four Days.

Albert B. Lambert, millionaire aviator and organizer of the aerial reserve of the United States, in a speech said: "Statistics from the front prove that the life of an aeroplane in war averages about 100 hours, or a little more than four days. On the French front there are about 1,500 aeroplanes, and on the British front there are about 1,000, making altogether 2,500 aeroplanes attached to the forces of the allies on the western battle line. It is calculated that it would require 7,500 of these aerial scouts to do constant duty at all points along the allies' lines. England and France are capable of turning out about 1,000 machines a week apiece. Compared with this the United States, including all its public and private resources, can build only about 300 or 400 aeroplanes weekly.

"Until we put our aeroplane service upon an adequate basis and provide for factories capable of turning out three or four times as many machines as it is possible at present, our army and navy will go into battle blind and predestined to certain defeat."

PIPES FOR THE OLD WOMEN

An Up to Date Smoking Room Also at Modern Poor Farm.

A silent little group of gray haired women, some of them great-grandmothers, resting easily in comfortable rocking chairs with thin blue ribbons of smoke rising from their meerschaum and cornob pipes, will be part of the "modernism" at the new $150,000 women's building, now in process of completion at the Ramsey county poor farm, St. Paul.

For the old women are to have an elaborate smoking room, fitted in modern style, and said Mrs. Albert Moore, wife of the farm superintendent: "If the dear old souls want the walls covered with pictures of race horses, prize fighters and baseball players, they may have them. When we took a poll of the old ladies regarding the establishment of a den for smoking," she continued, "there was hardly a dissenting voice. We shall furnish the tobacco, and we expect the 'smoker' to be one of the most popular places of the institution."

A ROMANCE IN DUPLICATE

Happy Ending of a Mixed Up
Love Affair.

Henry and Howard Corwith loved each other devotedly. Henry was four years older than Howard, but looked younger. He had been injured when a child, and this had retarded his development. When he was seven years old a cyclone passed over the town where they lived, leaving the swath of a gigantic scythe behind it. The brothers had been left alone in the house, Henry in charge of it and of his little brother Howard. At the time of the passage of the whirlwind Howard was asleep. Feeling the house crashing down upon them, Henry planted himself above his younger brother to protect him. When several hours later they were taken out from under the fallen timbers, Howard was found to be unhurt, but Henry had received severe injuries.

And now at twenty-six and twenty-two respectively Henry was small and thin and pale, Howard a well developed, stalwart man. Henry felt the same affection for his brother as when he had saved him from death. Howard lived under a constant reminder of the sacrifice Henry had made for him, and it was his aim to heap benefits upon the brother who had taken the burden that had permitted his own development. Howard was never so well pleased as at discovering some want of Henry's that he could supply.

Fortunately they both fell in love at the same time and with sisters. Henry became engaged to Delia Martin and Howard soon after became engaged to her sister Belle. It was said that Howard proposed to the sister of his brother's fiancée to save himself from being left with no one to love. However this may be, both brothers seemed satisfied.

Henry Corwith, deprived of the physique with which to live a strenuous life, found compensation in art. After learning all of his profession that could be drawn from American preceptors he resolved to go abroad to study. Belle Martin possessed musical taste and concluded to take a course of music in Germany. It was agreed that the two should cross the ocean in the same vessel, and upon arrival Henry was to go to Paris, Belle to Berlin.

They sailed in the autumn and were to return the following summer. Howard Corwith endured the separation from his brother and his fiancée as best he could. Howard and Delia had a common interest and naturally turned to each other for comfort. Each found in the other a listener into whose ear to pour a story of enforced separation. Howard talked of Belle, and Delia talked of Henry. The interchange of sympathy was perfect.

Ten months passed. Henry and Belle wrote that they would meet in Southampton and return on the same steamer. Howard's friends, when apprised of his brother's and his fiancée's return, congratulated him warmly, but Howard, instead of looking happy over the approaching reunion, wore a troubled look. As the time for the absent ones' return drew near this evidence of some secret dread increased, and on the day of the arrival Howard seemed threatened with nervous prostration.

Delia Martin went to New York to meet her sister, the two girls having arranged to pass a few days in the city. Howard Corwith sent word that he was not well enough to go on to meet his brother and his fiancée, and Henry on reaching port took the first train home. Howard drove to the station for him. At their meeting Henry noticed that Howard looked right past him, avoiding meeting his eye. Henry sighed and bent his head. The pressure of hands was cold and the meeting entirely devoid of warmth. As they drove home together Henry said: "Fletcher came to see you, I suppose, and brought you the commissions I gave him for you?"

"Yes."

Henry sighed and gazed far away. "Fletcher told me all about you," said Howard.

"So I supposed," said Henry.

"It was a pleasant season for you and Belle to be together in Switzerland."

"Fletcher spoke of it?"

"Yes."

By this time they reached the house and, alighting, went into the library, where they had so often smoked and talked and exchanged confidences. Then Henry said:

"Howard, this thing is killing you."

"How did you know it?" Howard asked, quickly looking up at his brother.

"I knew Fletcher would give you the facts," replied Henry without noticing the question. "I saw what was on your mind the moment I arrived."

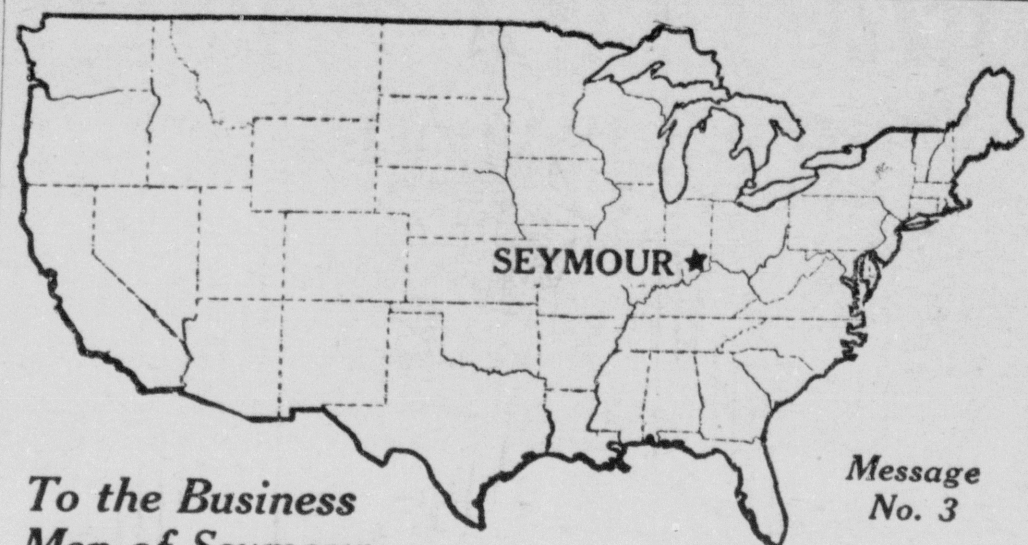

"You are right in assuming that it is killing me. To think that you who have borne the burden for me all these years and always bear it should have such a brother!"

"What do you mean, Howard?"

"I mean that I am a dog. You know it as well as I. But what could I do? We have been thrown together constantly ever since you and Belle went away. I thought I loved Belle. Now I know I love Delia. I have robbed you of her."

Henry went to his brother and threw his arms around his neck. "If you don't know it already," he said, "I'll tell you that I've robbed you of Belle."

"Great heavens! Suppose either of us had proved faithful!"

THE CALL OF FIRE

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER and LILLIAN CHESTER

ILLUSTRATED BY C. D. RHODES

Rev. Smith Boyd colored. At times the way of spiritual instruction was quite difficult. Nevertheless, he had a duty to perform. Mechanically he had taken his place at the piano, standing straight and tall, and his blue eyes softened as they automatically fell on the piece of music she had opened. Of course it was their favorite, the one in which their voices had soared in the most perfect unison. Gail glanced up at him as she brushed a purely imaginary fleck of dust from the keys. For an instant the brown eyes and the blue ones met. He was a tremendously nice fellow, after all. But what was worrying him?

"Before we sing I should like to take up graver matters," he began, feeling at a tremendous disadvantage in the presence of the music. To obviate this, he drew up a chair, and sat facing her. "I have called this evening in the capacity of your temporary pastor."

Gail's eyelids had a tendency to flicker down, but she restrained them. She was adorable when she looked prim that way. Her lips were like a rosebud. Rev. Smith Boyd himself thought of the smile, and cast it behind him.

"You are most kind," she told him, suppressing the lumps and demons which struggled to pop into her eyes. "I have been greatly disturbed by the length to which your unbelief has apparently gone," the young rector went on, and having plunged into this opening he began to breathe more freely. This was familiar ground.

Gail rested a palm on the edge of the bench behind her, and leaned back facing him, supported on one beautifully modeled arm. Her face had set seriously now.

"However," went on the rector, "I do not expect to be able to remove the spiritual errors, which I am compelled to judge that you have accumulated, by any other means than patient logic," he resumed. "May I discuss these matters with you?" His voice was grave and serious, and full of earnest sincerity, and the musical quality alone of it made patient, logical discussion seem attractive.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."

"But to get the bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable castor' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real castor of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'sentinel' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Sentinel tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blotches, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unhealthy eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel—and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need be deprived of its wonderful benefits.

"Sentinel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. The action in the morning is so easy, so soothing, and instead of a weakening after-effect, you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Sentinel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the sanest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "sentinel" tablet as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.

Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the "catarrhic habit." Also, for the popularity of sentinel tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found.—Druggists Review.

"If you like," she assented, smiling at him with willful deception. The wicked thought had occurred to her that it might be her own duty to broaden his spiritual understanding.

"Thank you," he accepted gravely. "If you will give me an hour or so each week, I shall be very happy."

"I am nearly always at home on Tuesday and Friday evenings," suggested Gail. "Scarcely anyone calls before eight-thirty, and we have dinner quite early on those evenings." She began to be sincerely interested in the project. She had never given herself time to quite exactly define her own attitude towards theology as distinct from religion, and she felt that she should do it, if for no other reason than to avoid making impulsive overstatements. Rev. Smith Boyd would help her to look squarely into her own mind and her own soul, for he had a very active intelligence, and was, moreover, the most humanly forceful cleric she had ever met. Besides, they could always finish by singing.

"I shall make arrangements to be over as early as you will permit," declared the rector, warmly aglow with the idea. "We shall begin with the very beginnings of things, and, step by step, develop, I hope, a logical justification of the vast spiritual revolution which has conquered the world."

"I should like nothing better," mused Gail, and since Rev. Smith Boyd rose and stood behind her and filled his lungs, she turned to the piano and struck a preliminary chord, which she trailed off into a tinkling little run, by way of friendly greeting to the piano.

"We shall begin with the creation," pursued the rector, dwelling, with pleasure, on the idea of a thorough progress through the mazes of religious growth. There were certain vague points which he wanted to clear up for himself.

"And wind up with Vedder court," she had not meant to say that. It just popped into her mind, and popped off the end of her tongue.

"Even that will be taken up in its due logical sequence," and Rev. Smith Boyd prided himself on having already displayed the patience which he had come expressly to exercise.

Gail was immediately aware that he was exercising patience. He had reproved her, nevertheless, and quite coldly, for having violated the tacit agreement to take up the different phases of their weighty topic only "in their due logical sequence." The rector, in this emergency, would have found no answer which would stand the test, but Gail had the immense advantage of femininity.

"It altogether depends at which end we start our sequence," she sweetly reminded. "My own impression is that we should begin at Vedder court and work back to the creation. Vedder court needs immediate attention."

That was sufficient. When Allison called, twenty minutes later, they were at it hammer and tongs. There was a bright red spot in each of Gail's cheeks, and Rev. Smith Boyd's cold eyes were distinctly green! Allison had been duly announced, but the combatants merely glanced at him, and finished the few remarks upon which they were, at the moment, engaged. He had been studying the tableau with the interest of a connoisseur, and he had devoted his more earnest attention to Rev. Smith Boyd.

"So glad to see you," said Gail conventionally, rising and offering him her hand. If there was that strange thrill in his clasp, she was not aware of it.

"I only ran in to see if you'd like to take a private car trip in the new subway before it is opened," offered Allison, turning to shake hands with Rev. Smith Boyd. "Will you join us, doctor?"

For some reason a new sort of jangle had come into the room, and it affected the three of them. Allison was the only one who did not notice that he had taken Gail's acceptance for granted.

"You might tell us when," she observed, transferring the flame of her eyes from the rector to Allison. "I may have conflicting engagements."

"No, you won't," Allison cheerfully informed her; "because it will be at any hour you set."

"Oh," was the weak response, and, recognizing that she was fairly beaten, her white teeth flashed at him in a smile of humor. "Suppose we say ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

"I am free at that hour," stated Doctor Boyd, in answer to a glance of inquiry from Allison. He felt it his duty to keep in touch with public improvements. Also, beneath his duty lay a keen pleasure in the task.

"You'll be very much interested, I think," and Allison glowed with the ever-present pride of achievement, then he suddenly grinned. "The new subway stops at the edge of Vedder court, waiting."

There was another little pause of embarrassment, in which Gail and Rev. Smith Boyd were very careful not to glance at each other. Unfortunately, however, Rev. Smith Boyd was luckless enough to automatically and without conscious mental process fold the sheet of music which had long since been placed on the piano.

"Why stop at the edge of Vedder court?" inquired Gail, with a nervous little jerk, much as if the words had been jolted out of her by the awkward slam of the music rack, which had succeeded the removal of the song. "Why not go straight on through, and demolish Vedder court? It is a scandal and a disgrace to civilization, and to the city, as well as to its present proprietors! Vedder court should be annihilated, torn down, burned up, swept from the face of the earth! The board of health should condemn it as unsanitary, the building commission should condemn it as unsafe, the department of public morals should condemn it as unwholesome!"

Rev. Smith Boyd had been engaged in a strong wrestle within himself, but the spirit finally conquered the flesh, and he held his tongue. He remembered that Gail was young, and youth was prone to extravagant impulse. His spirit of forbearance came so strongly to his aid that he was even able to acknowledge how beautiful she was when she was stiffened.

Allison had been viewing her with mingled admiration and respect.

"By George, that's a great idea," he thoughtfully commented. "Gail, I think I'll tear down Vedder court for you!"

CHINA ORDERS 100 U. S. SUBMARINES

Schwab Said to Have $75,000,000 Contract For Navy.

REPUBLIC'S DEFENSE PLAN.

These Boats to Be Largest in the World and Particularly Fitted For Raids on Seacoast Towns—American Plants Will Be Enlarged to Execute the Order.

Under the direction of Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, American war plants are to put the government of China on a basis of military and naval preparedness surpassing all efforts previously attempted by that republic.

Schwab has become the chief confidential adviser of the Chinese government on the vast manufacturing end of its program, this result being largely an outgrowth of the confidential relation established by the American steel man with leading Chinese officials in the $30,000,000 ammunition deal with the former Chinese dynasty by the Bethlehem Steel corporation a few years ago.

As an initial step 100 submarines will be built at a cost of $75,000,000, the greatest single order for submarines recorded since the underwater craft were invented.

The order for submarines will be followed by contracts for heavy field artillery, high explosive shells, torpedoes, rifles and other arms and munitions, with the construction of battleships and cruisers as one of the more distant possibilities.

The negotiations for submarines have reached such an advanced stage that only minor details remain to be worked out.

U Boats to Be Immense.

The submarines will be the largest U boats ever turned out from American yards. They will include vessels of a type exceeding in size and cruising range any of the submarines turned out in Germany of which this country yet has learned. They will be of a type particularly fitted for raids on seacoast towns, so that they will be as formidable for attack as for defense.

Unlike the orders for submarines placed on this side of the Atlantic by the allies, the construction will be done entirely in the United States and none of it in Canada, as naturally no question of violation of neutrality is involved.

The order will be placed by the Chinese government through Schwab with the Electric Boat company. This order, combined with the demand by the allies for submarine work in this country, has resulted in plans by Schwab whereby the United States will have the largest submarine manufacturing plants in the world, barring neither the submarine departments of the Krupp in Germany nor that of the Schneider works at Creusot, France.

Plants Will Be Enlarged.

This will be accomplished through a combination and an extensive enlargement of the Electric Boat company, which holds the patents on the Holland submarines, with those of the Bethlehem Steel corporation. In connection with those plans Schwab has become a principal factor in the management of the Electric Boat company, although he has not yet appeared openly as such.

Within a month the Electric Boat company will be reorganized into the Submarine Boat corporation, recently chartered at Albany, before which time the names of the officers of the new corporation will be made known. One of the leading bankers of New York will become president of the new corporation. He represents interests closely identified with Schwab.

Construction of the submarines for China will done at the plants of the Fore River Shipbuilding company at Quincy, Mass., and the Union Iron works at San Francisco and the factories of the New London Ship and Engine company at Groton, Conn.

A member of the Chinese diplomatic service, when questioned regarding the submarine contract, admitted that his country is in the international market for all classes of warships and armaments.

It was learned that two officials of the Chinese naval board were in New York less than a month ago to study the market and make arrangements for the construction of the submarines. These two Chinese, Commissioners Wei and Szi, were in Washington as the guests of the Chinese legation.

COURTESIES AMONG AIR MEN.

Foes Express Written Regret For War's Deadly Demands.

A strange courtesy of war which attends the fraternity of air men, regardless of the fact that they are divided into hostile camps, was reported by English army aviators on leave of absence in London.

If a British aviator kills a German aviator he makes a second flight over the enemy's lines, drops a note expressing regret that the demands of war made his action necessary and asks that his sympathies be carried to the dead aviator's family.

A young English aviator started the practice several weeks ago. The Germans promptly reciprocated.

15,000 MILE TRIP TO SEE HUSBAND

Wife Then Has but One Hour to Say Goodby.

DELAYED BY MANY MISHAPS

Starting In Tokyo, She Crosses Pacific, American Continent and the Atlantic to See Man Who Is Just About to Leave London For the Battlefield. Her Long Journey an Exciting One.

The story of how a young Canadian bride raced 15,000 miles, from Tokyo to London, across the Pacific, the American continent and the Atlantic, to see her soldier bridegroom for a few days and of the curious string of mishaps that delayed her arrival so that she saw him for an hour only is interesting and thrilling.

The husband was adviser to a large timber concern in Canada. The honeymoon was hardly over when he was called away on a long job in England, where it was impossible to take his bride. After he had left she decided to accompany friends on a trip to Japan. She had been in the island empire some time without hearing from her husband when she received a cable message stating that he had enlisted on his arrival in England in a Canadian regiment, which had gone to the western front with one of the first drafts.

Making up her mind to see him immediately, the bride left Tokyo the next day for the first leg of her world circling journey. Arriving in Vancouver, she sent two cable messages, one engaging accommodations on the steamship Philadelphia at New York, the other informing her husband at the front of her step. Then she sped on across the country in America's fastest trains.

When the husband received his wife's message he calculated that the liner would reach Liverpool on Saturday, and succeeded in getting leave from the trenches for Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Meanwhile the Philadelphia, her prow pointed eastward, was swiftly putting America far behind her, and the bride was happy. Three days out from New York, however, things began to happen. Tantalizing delays began eating into the Philadelphia's schedule sailing time. First the liner had to stop to pick up a German passenger who had tried to commit suicide by drowning. Her husband in the British uniform, the bride could not quite pardon the captain for this delay, and she began to be restless.

Then as the vessel was approaching the submarine war zone, she picked up "S O S" calls from the Hesperian, and spent more valuable time looking over the sea for survivors. Next the ship's boilers went wrong just as she had entered the danger zone, and she stopped dead and drifted, an easy prey for any submarine. And finally, as a climax, the Philadelphia reached Liverpool, after all her mishaps, on Saturday night, too late for the passengers to land.

The bride spent a sleepless night, on the verge of nervous breakdown. Sunday morning brought a telegram from her husband in London saying that he was forced to leave for the front at 5:30 o'clock that afternoon. Determined to see him even if she had to fly the rest of the way, the girl finally persuaded the immigration officials to release her. As the ship glided alongside the docks and before it had come to a stop she leaped from the rail, and her luggage was thrown after her.

One Train Canceled, Second Late. A moment later she was tearing in a taxicab through the streets of Liverpool to the railroad station, only to find the boat train had been canceled. After a tedious wait the girl bride caught an 11 o'clock train for London.

It arrived in the metropolis twenty minutes late. There the traveler met her husband and saw him for exactly one hour. After she had seen him aboard a troop train for France the girl went to a hotel and cried.

MORGAN BANK BOMB PROOF.

Iron Lattice Covers Dome and Protects the Financier.

To guard against bomb throwers contractors, under the glare of arc lamps, have covered the glass dome of the Morgan building with iron lattice work. In order that the work would not attract undue attention it was done at night when most people in the financial district had left for the day.

A detective has been on guard for weeks on the roof of the building and other detectives have been placed at windows in adjoining buildings overlooking the Morgan building to prevent anybody from throwing missiles through the dome.

Ever since J. P. Morgan was shot by a crank the Morgan building has been well guarded by detectives.

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN TO BE GUEST OF AETNA CO.

Harry M. Miller will be Member of Party that Will Make Trip to the Pacific Coast.

Harry M. Miller, the successful insurance man, will leave here September 30 on a trip to the Pacific coast as a guest of the Aetna Insurance Company, which he represents here. Sometime ago the casualty department of the Aetna Company announced to its agents throughout the United States that it would give each a trip to the Expositions in California if they brought their business up to a certain point. Several weeks ago Mr. Miller exceeded the required amount of insurance and has received word that he is expected as a member of the party.

The Casualty Department of the company has arranged for a special train from the East. The train will reach Indianapolis on September 30. In the party will be a large number of the representative insurance men of the country who represent the Aetna. Everything for their enjoyment will be arranged.

One day, October 7, has been set aside as Aetna Day at the San Francisco Exposition, and October 12 has been designated as Aetna Day at the San Diego Fair. President Bulkley, of the company, will address the representatives at San Francisco. The Aetna Company has a safety exhibit there and will receive a medal from the Exposition management. On Aetna Day a special program has been arranged and spectacular fireworks will be a feature.

The party of insurance men will go to the West by the day of Denver and Salt Lake City and will return by way of the Grand Canyon.

Clubhouse Destroyed.

Columbus, Ind., Sept. 20—While the Country Club on Driftwood river, seven miles north of here, operated for five years by Charles Brown, was burning Saturday night Brown was in jail at Columbus for non-payment of fines and costs of $299.25 assessed against him a few days ago for violating the liquor laws. The club house and its contents were destroyed and officers here who investigated the fire believe it was of incendiary origin and will refer it for investigation to the State Fire Marshal. The contents of the house were insured for $500.

U. S. LEADS WORLD AS AN EXPORTER

Passes the United Kingdom For First Time In History.

TOTAL IS $2,768,600,000.

Department of Commerce Says Fiscal Period Ending June 30 Shows Increase of 17 Per Cent In Exports. Report on United Kingdom Shows Decrease of 30 Per Cent.

For the first time in its history the United States became the leading exporting nation of the world with the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1915. American exports totaled $2,768,600,000 as against those of the United Kingdom with $2,170,000,000, and in issuing these figures the department of commerce adds, "Occasionally we have surpassed the United Kingdom in the exportation of domestic products, but it was only in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, that our total exports, domestic and foreign, exceeded those of the United Kingdom."

That the growth of this export business of the United States is working along the soundest of lines is shown by the fact that in the year 1821, the earliest year for which figures are available, exports of manufactures were valued at $8,000,000, while in 1915 they had grown to $1,166,000,000, exclusive of foodstuffs. This wholesome growth is also reflected in the monthly summary of the foreign commerce of the United States just issued by the department of commerce for June, 1915. The total exports for June, 1915, were $268,547,416 as against $157,072,014 in June, 1914. And in spite of the great part played by munitions in these figures the whole export trade of the country has assumed a tone that speaks well for its continued growth when once peace comes back to the world of Europe.

Automobiles Outvalue Horses.

The place transportation occupies in modern warfare was illustrated in the leading part played by automobiles and horses in the exports from this country during June. For the first time in months the horseless carriage led the horse in value for export from the United States to Great Britain and France, the number of automobiles being 7,408, with a total value of $13,304,500, while 40,083 horses, valued at $8,093,419, were shipped for war usage.

Although fewer cartridges and small arms were shipped abroad in June of this year as compared with the preceding month and less dynamite, there was an enormous increase in the amount of gunpowder and all other explosives.

There was another enormous proportionate increase in the number and value of horseshoes exported, while the wool manufactures sent abroad more than doubled in June the volume of exports of May. The manner in which harness and saddles are used up nowadays in the great war is shown by the fact that the exports of these two things in June amounted to an excess of $500,000 over the figures for May.

That war times are having their influence on American made goods in lines that scarcely figure in the export tables of May, 1914, for example, is shown by the latest complete report of the department of commerce, which puts them into the June comparative tables. In June, 1914, there was only $54,387 worth of brass bars, plates, etc., exported, while this June we sent abroad these goods to the value of $948,305. Our exports of sulphuric acid and all other acids rose from a value of only $29,050 in June, 1914, to the large total of $418,107 in the same month this year. In knit goods, most of which are worn by soldiers, our exports were only valued at $231,970 in June of last year, while in the corresponding month of this year we sent abroad knit goods to the value of $1,390,412.

ODOR ARISES FROM THE UNSWEPT PAVED STREETS

First Complaints Filed Sunday the Third Day After Force Ceased Work.

Although the street force has only been off duty since Thursday several complaints have already been made by residents along the improved streets relative to the objectionable odor that arises during the heat of the day. People living on certain blocks on East Second street said that the odor was very annoying about Sunday noon.

Nothing has been done towards replenishing the street fund so that the force can be returned to work. A few residents swept part of the street in front of their own property this morning, but the work was by no means general. Some residents said today that if the streets become so filthy that they are a menace to public health they would take the matter up with the state board of health. Thus far, however no movement of that character has been made.
